Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 23.—A blow is aimed at the "moonshine" industry by a statement by Otto A. Braun, insurance agent, who stated today that an insurance company is not liable for damages done by a fire caused by a still.

Mr. Braun added that it is likely that even if a fire were caused by a still, the fact that a still had been in operation would mean that the company is not liable.

"Aside from the fact that the operation of a still is no doubt an illegal act, the standard fire insurance policy of Wisconsin provides that the company shall not be liable for loss or damage occurring while the hazard is increased," said Mr. Braun.

TOWNSHIPS TO GET ELECTRIC POWER

Wisconsin River Power Seeks Franchise to Extend Lines in County.

Indications of the furnishing of electrical heat, power and light to various townships of Rock county became apparent this morning when the Wisconsin River Power company petitioned for a franchise. The franchise petition offered to the county board is from the sub-station at Stouten to Oregon and Brooklyn. It was signed by W. M. Horton.

While there was no tendency by the board members to refuse the granting of the right for the transmission line, the supervisors laid strict lines to the company. They demanded the committee to whom the petition was referred take extreme measures to prevent the company from encroaching on the rights of the property owners, farmers and on the highway. Particular stress was laid to stop the line men destroying trees.

Before granting this franchise it is urged the board to take such necessary steps as will stop the construction men from mutilating trees. It is a rank indignity the way telephone line men have damaged trees along the highways and streets in the county. I claim unlawful and malicious destruction should mean the forfeiture of a franchise.

Chairman E. D. McGowan, who was supported by other supervisors. The franchise petition, announced the chairman, would mean the granting of a franchise to the company to extend the lines through the county generally. The lines run from Prairie du Sac and Kilbourn on the Wisconsin river.

The conditions outlined are that across all highways the wires shall not be less than 12 feet from the ground, and at all other points at least 14 feet. The franchise has been passed upon favorably by Charles Thomas, William Freese and W. H. Woodworth, supervisors of the town of Union.

An investigation with the view of possibly seeking a revision of the petition setting forward a more exacting agreement on the matter of destroying trees will be conducted by the board committee.

HIGHER SALARY IS ASKED FOR ANTISEL

A plea for increased salary for the county superintendent of schools was made during the session of the county board during the adjourned meeting today.

It was pointed out that the office of the county superintendent should rank with that of the executives of schools in the average city. That the county school man is woefully underpaid, unappreciated for his true value and worth, were statements made.

According to a letter from C. E. Cary, state superintendent, the position should carry a salary of $3,000 a year.

"The position is more difficult than that of the city superintendent and a county superintendent should not be required to do so much clerical work that he cannot have the most of his time for field work," read the letter. The letter was placed on file.

There is nothing that bores a man who is in love more than a crowd.

10 PRECINCTS ARE RECOMMENDED

Committee Would Have People Decide Whether More Wards Are Wanted.

Voters may decide at the spring election of 1921 whether Janesville shall have 10 wards instead of five, and, if so, whether there shall be 10 aldermen or 20.

Members of the special committee on wards and precincts at an informal meeting last night agreed upon a plan to re-divide Janesville at once into the 10 voting precincts, and let the people decide by referendum next April whether they want to have 10 wards instead of five. The plan is to submit this recommendation to the city council at its regular meeting next Monday night.

For purposes of complying with the state law in time to have the spring election legal, it was informally decided to divide the First, Second and Fourth wards into three precincts each, the Third into three precincts, the Fifth to stand as at present. This would make 10 precincts in all. Action on the council is awaited to make this official.

The divisions proposed are:

FIRST WARD.
Precinct 1.—Territory bounded on east by river, north by city limits, west by Washington street, and south by present ward line.

Precinct 2.—Territory bounded on east by Washington street, north and west by city limits, and south by ward line.

SECOND WARD.
Precinct 1.—Territory bounded on north by city limits, on east and south by a line running down North Main street up Prospect avenue to Cornelia and on Cornelia to limits, west by river.

Precinct 2.—Territory bounded on north and west by above line, and south and east by ward line.

THIRD WARD.
Precinct 1.—Bounded on north by Milton avenue, on east by limits, west by river, and south by St. Lawrence avenue and Lager street.

Precinct 2.—North by St. Lawrence, south by Racine, east by limits and west by river.

Precinct 3.—North by Racine, south, west and east by limits and present ward lines.

FOURTH WARD.
Precinct 1.—Territory, north and south by present ward lines and west by High and Lincoln streets.

Precinct 2.—All land west of Lincoln and High to present ward limits.

TWO GYPSY GIRLS TRY TO HOLD UP BANK

Marquette, Nov. 23.—Robbery of the Farmers Savings and Trust Bank was attempted today by two gypsy members of a gypsy tribe camped near here. The attempt was frustrated by Lee Higgins, assistant cashier, who witnessed the theft, grabbed the girl and wrested the money from her. At police headquarters both girls refused to give their names.

DEER HUNTERS FIND WOODS UNTEABLE

Marquette, Wis., Nov. 23.—Sixteen inches of wet snow, followed by heavy storms and continued wet weather have made the woods of this section almost unteable for deer hunters. DESIRES TO QUIT PURCHASING WORK

County Clerk Howard W. Lee insists on resigning as purchasing agent of Rock county. This stand was taken in positive terms by the clerk during the meeting of the board this afternoon.

Pressed for a reason for resigning as being chairman of the purchasing committee Lee gave intimation that "all was not well between the county clerk and the sheriff."

It seems the sheriff, Fred Seely, desired work for the county jail and refused to accept soft coal. That started things, hard coal being hard to obtain.

"I have been called Czar of Rock county enough," said Lee. "Unless the board accepts my resignation as purchasing agent, I will resign as chairman of the committee. The allegations that I have been 'running this county' have been made so much that it is 'getting under skin—it's tender by now.'"

After considerable talking the supervisors withdrew a motion to accept and reached an agreement to reach a decision during the January meeting. Several members of the board declared it vital to the county to have the clerk act as chairman of the purchasing committee.

Colvin Bakery CASE DISMISSED

Charges against the Colvin Bakery company of manufacturing doughnuts in an unsanitary room were discussed by Judge Maxfield yesterday afternoon upon payment of costs of $1.80. A. J. Wilbur represented the company.

H. C. Weigle, state dairy and food commissioner, recommended that the proceedings be discontinued. It was brought out by H. C. Town, deputy food inspector, who made the complaint, handed a letter to this effect to Dist. Atty. S. G. Dunwiddie, declaring that the company is making $500 worth of repairs which was responsible for the temporary condition several weeks ago. Mr. Dunwiddie's motion for dismissal of the case was then granted.

In going over identification with Judge Maxfield, Mr. Town declared the Baker-Rite bakery to be the cleanest he has ever inspected.

The case against Paul Gehrke, against whom charges of unsanitary conditions have been made, has been set for Dec. 17.

For failing to thoroughly clean empty ice cream cans before putting out for return to the factories, the firms of Grebe & Newman and Dalton & Barry were fined $25.00, the minimum, in court today, upon Town's complaint.

A SWEETHEART AT THIRTY

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER 3
Self-revelation begins with a looking glass.
Most women spend a lot of time before a glass—a statement that will please most cynical men. Few of us spend enough time—or, rather, spend the time before a glass to the best advantage. No man will agree with me in that, I know, but nevertheless it is true.
As is usual with most fairly busy women, I did not look in the glass until a day—once in the morning when I combed my hair, and pinned on the collar of my house dress; and at night when I took out the hairpins before going to bed. But I never saw myself in the mirror while performing these mechanical motions—that is, I looked at my reflection, tucked in some of the wisps of hair that the hairpins did not catch, and fixed the collar straight—but I never actually saw myself.
Not until the day when all this great change began to take place. That day, carrying the mended curtains over my shoulder, I deliberately walked over to the mirror. I looked—actually looked—long and critically and impersonally at myself. "This is what I see," I said.
A spare woman with somewhat bent shoulders, straight hair, soiled and soiled with life or lustre that less and less gray or muddy brown—it had no real color. Fine lines ran over the forehead, and around the eyes. The nose was colored like a rose. Two deep lines were graven around the mouth; the lips were colorless and drooped. And I was looking at a reflection of eternal disappointment. There were lines on the neck too, especially where the tight collars I always wore on my black serge, pressed against the skin.
Whatever figure I might possess, was so lost under the no definite lines were visible. Altogether, the woman who presented herself to me in the glass might have been 40—50—60. She was so colorless that not even her age was definite.
And this was I, two days past my thirty-fifth birthday.
As I turned, another image came into the glass. Violet, entering the room, saw me and laughed. Then she slipped up behind me, she put her chin on my shoulder and looked in the glass with me. Her youth and vitality only made me seem older. "You're nice eyes, Aunt Edna," she said. "They look so young."
I had not noticed my eyes in my scrutiny. I looked again, and the eyes were young. They were the eyes of a young girl—eyes of a golden brown. But whatever pleasure I felt at discovering my good point, was lost in the realization of the bad ones. Violet, guessing this, laid down her books and helped me with the curtains.
"It's nice to be young, Vi," I said to her. She paused in her work—she was standing on a chair slipping the fresh curtains over her brass rods. "It's not nice to be too young," she said.
"Why? It's a fault soon enough overcome, and I sighed as I looked in the glass. "Well, it would be nice to be a year or so older," Violet urged.
"Mother says I'm too young to go out alone with Bud, and that she doesn't want me to take any visitors in my head about him, or any one else."
"And you shouldn't," I always tried to buck up Esther's words. "I don't care about the others, only about Bud. Violet, having carefully arranged the clean curtains, jumped against the skin."
lightly from the chair. "I'll never like like any one but Bud. You may smile if you want, and say I'm too young to know—but I'm not. Besides, I'm nearly 38, and I'm to graduate this June."
This suggested another subject at once. Violet hopped from the chair to the table, like a conversational bird. "I want you to do lots and lots of drawn work on my dress," she said eagerly. "You will not you?"
"Sure, a dear! You're the best aunt!" Her quick moving little hands were tugging in stray locks of hair as she coaxed me. "Mother will let me have the white voile she bought last year and never made up, and a lovely white ribbon sash. And you're to do drawn work on it in squares—Till show you how I want it."
We gathered up the curtains and went on with our work while she discussed her dress and young Bud. Pearlson alternately. In no time at all, Esther's voice came up to us.
"Supper's ready!"
So we went down together, to the table set at one side of the big farmhouse kitchen. Jim was there, already eating, and James, waiting for us. Esther was dishing things from the stove. Laura, the oldest girl, was not home. As we sat down, I began to observe the family—having begun to observe myself.
We all looked as though we had led good life, we older ones—and we had.
For life had once held out its hands to us, as it does to every one at some time or other—but we had not had imagination enough to take her gifts. Was it too late? This I was to find out.
To-morrow—More About the Family.

WHAT SHALL I DO?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE

Ladies, Speak Up!
"Dear Miss Page—Whee! I just took three women friends, visiting my town, out to dinner and I sure did get all balled up ordering that meal. Never again! None of 'em got what they did want—and I got so foolish I didn't know what I was ordering. How do you do it—for women I mean? Men speak up, you know and help a fellow out—Bewildered."
You poor man! Women are like that, aren't they? Each one said, "Oh, just anything!" or "Whatever you like," and then grumbled when it was served, didn't they?
Well, when possible, order a nice dinner, of the things people usually like, in advance. Or, better still, if it's worth a little extra tip to tell the head waiter the number of your guests and the number of courses you want, and leave the rest to him.
If you don't know in time to do this, then all you can do is to pray for good luck and reasonable women, and founder along as best you can—with these few suggestions.
Take your time. Consult each guest, and if they are all too polite (?) to express an opinion, throw yourself on the mercy of the chap-eron, or the guest of honor, or the one at your right, and ask her to help you out. And if this doesn't work, then pick one course, announce your choice and ask if anyone has a better suggestion. May-be you can break the ice that way and get them to talking—and then they'll probably order so much

Mrs. Warren in Best of Health at 91

Watching the events in the state of Wisconsin for 75 years and the growth of Janesville for the major portion of this period—Mrs. J. H. Warren, 217 Cornelia street, expressed full confidence of the successful future of Janesville on her 91st birthday, Sunday.
Dating from the time when Tom Lappin kept the only store in Janesville, when there was virgin timber on present day industrial sites, during the Indian campaigns, then later development, Mrs. Warren watched Janesville survive the frontier problems and flourish.
Born in New England, frontier hardships of the early west were not new to Mrs. Warren. She was born in New England and lived among the sturdy pioneers of New York. She came to Wisconsin with her parents, her father being a physician. She was one of the first members of the Trinity Episcopal church choir, when the church was organized Sept. 18, 1844 with Rev. Thomas J. Ruger as rector. Her husband was a pupil in the first school established here.
An UNANSWERED INQUIRY.
I'm sorry that there isn't room in my column to answer a letter from "Fair and Square." But a stamped and self-addressed envelope will bring a personal reply.
All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. —The Editor.

During the residence in Green Bay, Mr. Warren served in the Wisconsin state legislature from 1856 to 1860.
Long life is a strange trait of the family.
She had one sister who died at the age of 19, and two brothers living who are 86 and 72 years of age. One aunt lived to be more than 100 years of age.
Advanced age has lost Mrs. Warren very little of her physical tenacity and faculties. Accepting an optimistic and philosophical view of life she allowed nothing to age her through worry. Her knowledge of present affairs is of wider range and greater accuracy than the average woman of today. Physicians proclaim her mentality to be as good as that of a woman of 40 years.
Family of Doctors.
The majority of the family among the men became physicians. Her father was a practicing physician. Her husband studied medicine, but did not practice his profession, preferring politics. Two of her sons are practicing physicians in eastern states. Dr. Benjamin Warren and wife, Detroit, were present at the celebration held at the family residence. Her two daughters, Gertrude and Louise Warren, and Mrs. J. H. Warren, long friends of the family, attended the reunion. Dr. Herbert Warren, New York, the other living son, was unable to be present. Many of the pioneer residents of Janesville and family friends visited the Warren home Sunday to pay compliments.

THESE WOMEN PREFER PURR OF MOTOR TO SIZZLE OF COOKING
Fargo, N. D.—The purr of a smoothly running motor is sweeter music to the ears of some North Dakota women than the rattle of dishes, according to Mrs. Louise Campbell, of the state agricultural college home demonstration department.
These women of one North Dakota community recently refused to become interested in how to convert a hant bone into a delicious entrée, and other questions commonly supposed to intrigue the feminine mind, Mrs. Campbell says.
"Well, what do you wish to do?" asked the home demonstration agent in charge of the meeting.
"We want to learn how to fix an automobile when it will not run," was the answer.
So a man was obtained as instructor and repairing blowouts was taken up as a preliminary to studying the more difficult problems presented by the engine.

MARQUETTE FACES SHORTAGE OF ROOMS
Milwaukee—Marquette university is facing a serious housing problem, according to statements made by members of the faculty. The shortage of houses in the city has forced many newly married couples, who would normally either buy or build, to move into light housekeeping apartments. In turn the demand for these quarters has caused residents here to remodel their homes. It is said, with the result that in homes where formerly two or more students were living there is now no room.
According to members of the faculty a proposed building program is under consideration which will include one or more dormitory buildings and a new science building among others.
Approximately $1,500,000 raised through endowment and popular subscription is now on hand with which to begin the work in the spring, it is stated.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR TESSIE:
I'm delighted to hear you had to throw out the home brew. The kick of a home brew is liable to prove a stab in the back, so to speak. In many cases the kick of a mule would be a welcome relief in comparison. A man that knows anything of the ways of the world will lay a brew of home brew if only for the reason that the people that make it are always so generous with it, and that alone is a sign of danger in this hard boiled world of personal property owners. Not that I'm one of these long-haired short-brained birds that think the government should own everything. First let it own the politicians instead of the politicians owning the government. (Cries of "Hee! Hee!" and "Keep Your Shirt On!")
Well, coming back to home brew, which I hope I never will, a customer whispered to me not long ago that he had sloughed up some sort of an illegal concoction and invited me home to expose myself to it. "Sample it," was his flowery way of expressing it. Ordinarily, Tessie, I'd just as soon take a chance on trying out some kind of deadly explosive to oblige a customer, fanatic, but my motto is to oblige a customer. So I stopped bravely forth with him like one of King Arthur's good knight knights in the days of chivalry. The only difference was, this was a day of shivery, believe me. Shivery and fever. I stood one broadside and then my conscience, my common sense and my physical system all cried out to me to lay off. You can't back out after drinking a volley of home brew like you can when you step out on the railroad tracks between four galloping express trains. Late that night I paid the doctor what he said I owed him and changed my motto to its present form as follows: Anything to please a customer, except that. Self preservation wasn't such a bad form of death in the old days when you could preserve yourself little by little in the good alcohol of honest commerce, but times have changed. Tessie, old spouse, and it's far better to wait as patiently as you can for a natural death.
AR., JOE.

Put subject of lime in cider to keep it sweet. This will keep it sweet until warm weather in the spring. Get it at any drug store. See directions on package.
Here is another method:
After having the cider made, draw from the barrel and strain all sediment, then replace strained cider in barrel. Add four ounces ground mustard and one pound of raisins to cider in barrel.
Stir the mustard in a portion of cider until all dissolved before putting in barrel.
This amount of ingredients is sufficient to keep fifty gallons of cider, or a smaller quantity, as desired.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen years old and a year ago last August I met a boy two years older. We seemed to be the best of friends, but lately he just speaks to me. He has a ring of mine. Do you think I should ask him personally for it or write him and tell him to send it or give it to me personally?
B.A.B. OF WISCONSIN.
It would probably be less embarrassing for you to write a note to the young man and ask him to return the ring. It will not be necessary to suggest the way in which he should get it back to you. In your letter do not ask him why he does not come to see you. Simply write about the ring.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of fifteen and will be sixteen this coming January. When a boy takes you riding should you thank him after you get out of the car? I want to have a party sometime this month. Would it be all right to have both boys and girls, and what would be nice refreshments besides ice cream and cake?
A. B. C.
When you get back from the ride, either before you get out of the machine or after, thank the person who has taken you.
It would be all right to have both boys and girls. You might serve hot chocolate, with marshmallows or whipped cream on top, and sandwiches.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like advice about my hair. It is short and the ends are dead, and it doesn't seem to be growing any.
DEMOCRATIC P. D. Q.
It would help your hair to go to a hair dresser and have the ends trimmed. There are directions on the bottle or in a circular which goes with the product. DOW ATTACKS CARD PLAYING, MOVIES

Declares Theater Business Today Is "Morally Rotten"

—Scores Actors.

Finishing his sermons on popular amusements, which began last week with a bombardment of the modern dance, Evangelist Dow at the Methodist church here last night set forth why he opposes theaters, motion pictures, and card playing.

"I am not opposing some ideal, something you may have in your mind," he explained, "but a real thing—the modern shows and games. Eight out of 10 shows are morally rotten. This includes the so-called moral and religious plays."

"The theater business today is the dirtiest business on earth. You say the plays put on in Janesville are decent. Let me tell you what your plays are. The actors all begin in the larger cities like New York and Chicago and as they come to Janesville they begin the downward round of the next size cities. They play cities like Indianapolis and St. Paul and then they hit cities like Terre Haute and Dubuque. By the time they have gotten to Dubuque they are about ready for the theatrical scrap heap. From Dubuque or Kenosha they hit the toboggan straight for hell and on the way stop off for a few days in Janesville. And you people go in there to their dirty districts before they take the last plunge into the pit."

Should Boycott Movies

Speaking of moving pictures, the evangelist declared church people should boycott them if for no other reason than that they "desecrate the Sabbath and empty the churches of their young people."

"Granted," he said, "which I wish we might grant, but cannot as 90 per cent of the films have something in them suggestive of the low or vile and are therefore inimical to the morals of the youth of the land. That the films displayed are of high character, you people who profess to be Christians and belong to churches, to humiliate and give the name of a frown upon them. They are run about secretly and privately for gain and the biggest day of the week is the day the law of the land sets forth for the work of the churches in its attempt to humanize and uplift the people. You condemn the churches for not doing more to save the community from moral decay, and yet you allow and patronize an institution that is breaking down their efforts."

Cards Develop Gamblers

His opposition to cards was based upon his experience with young men who had become gamblers through card playing and had wrecked their lives. He contended that from the very nature of the game, one is tempted to cheat and this develops the thirst for gambling which is one of the greatest curses of the age.

Tonight Dow will speak on "Janesville's Greatest Crime."

BADGERS IN CHICAGO TO VISIT JANESVILLE

Each year the Wisconsin Society of Chicago makes a pilgrimage to some old home town. This coming year Janesville will be visited. The society will as in years past, have a special train and spend the day here. There will be several hundred visitors and efforts are being made to secure the Country club here for the meeting.

Henry L. Green, former Janesville man, chairman of the membership committee and a vice president, is active in making plans for the trip. He is especially desirous of learning the names of all Wisconsin residents in Chicago and asks that those who have acquaintances there write him and he will get in communication with each one in Chicago.

Mr. Green's address is "H. L. Green, 20 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill."

TO SELECT CABINET BEFORE JANUARY

made and the various members of the cabinet may begin at once to familiarize themselves unofficially with their jobs.

The latest timber piecing together the views of several close friends of Senator Harding with him at Point Isabel and have since conferred with prominent republican leaders, the cabinet slate seems to be at present in this shape:

Secretary of state—Philander C. Knox, if his health permits; David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany, or Charles Evans Hughes, if he could be persuaded to accept it, which is doubted.

Secretary of the treasury—Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois. No others are likely to displace him. Secretary of the navy—Former Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts.

Daugherty of Ohio Attorney general—Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, pre-convention manager for Senator Harding. If he declines, former Senator Sutherland of Utah may be selected.

Secretary of interior—Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico. He is understood to have made arrangements for the appointment of a successor to the senate in the event of his resignation.

Secretary of war—Gen. John J. Pershing of Nebraska.

Secretary of commerce—Theodore Roosevelt.

Secretary of agriculture—Henry C. Wallace of Des Moines, head of farm publications and the chief counsel to Mr. Harding on agricultural matters during the campaign.

Secretary of labor—Representative John F. Burke of Pennsylvania.

Postmaster general—Senator Harry New of Indiana or Will Hays of Indiana.

Theodore Roosevelt Jr. in the List Secretary of commerce—Walter Dickey of Kansas City, Mo., who is being backed by Jake Hammond of Oklahoma, one of the members of the Harding group who is largely credited with the success of Harding in Oklahoma this year; A. Tobias Hart of Kentucky, who was one of the original Lowden men and helped at the psychological moment at Chicago to nominate Harding; Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who is being urged as a splendid representative of the progressive elements in the republican party.

Subject to change

Now every cabinet slate is like a railroad time table—subject to change without notice. The alternates mentioned in the foregoing list may be replaced by others depending upon the line-up of states and other factors. For instance, Senator New is a close friend of Senator Harding and headed the "Speakers' bureau" during the campaign. He is said to be apprehensive about renomination for the senate.

EVANSVILLE TEAM HURT BY LOSS OF TWO OF BEST MEN

Determined to end the 1920 football season with a third win and not disheartened by the overwhelming defeat of last Saturday at the hands of Detroit, Jansville high school started practice last night for the Evansville game. The team, which has been playing on the local fair grounds, will not until after tonight will there be any hope on the team that will take the field for the Evansville game.

From Evansville comes the information that football stock in that city took a decided drop Monday night. During a hard scrimmage on a slippery, snow covered field, McMurray, the heavy fullback and one of the best men on the squad, turned his back to the line and sprained his knee. Evansville's star kicker this season, has been out for two weeks with a ulcerated tooth and probably will be unable to play. This leaves the backfield for the Jansville game. It is hardly likely that Jansville will be able to develop anything in the few hours remaining before the teams clash. After McMurray's accident, several different shifts were tried, but Jansville boys are not looking upon this condition of the Evansville team in any over-confident light. They are hoping to catch the team with one purpose in mind—to win.

FORWARD PASS IS FROWNED ON IN EAST

Boston, Nov. 23.—A suggestion for changing the forward pass, to prevent development of present day football into a game more nearly resembling basketball, has been advanced by Dr. D. H. Houghton, founder of Harvard's gridiron coaching system.

"Instead of having an incomplete forward pass," Houghton said, "the team which started the play, make a forward pass blocked behind the thrower's line of scrimmage subject to recovery by opponents. This is the same as a blocked kick." Houghton's idea, at present, a pass which has been batted down, but caught by an opponent, merely costs the throwing team a down.

Is Not Football

"If you allow the blocked forward pass to be recovered behind the line of scrimmage, as a blocked kick, you force the team to protect the pass, just as it must protect the kicker," said Houghton. "Instead of having five men eligible to receive the pass, you have but three, possibly two. Why restrict the forward pass? It is not football, and gradually the game will stray farther away from the fundamental aspects and become a combination of basketball and baseball."

ILLINOIS-HARVARD GAME IN 1921 POSSIBILITY

Urbana, Ill., Agitation by students at the University of Illinois and by football devotees all over the middle west for a game between Harvard and Illinois has been revived. The director of athletics of the University of Illinois, to promise efforts in the direction of scheduling a game between the two eleven-year-old teams. Interest in the proposal has been on the rise since a year ago when Harvard offered the Illinois team a date for a game to be played at Harvard. Illinois requested that Harvard repay the compliment by accepting a return engagement at Urbana. Harvard declined, and the proposal was dropped, until public sentiment has induced Director Huff to take further action.

BARBARE REFUTES ALL FAKE GAME RUMORS

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 23.—Walter Barbare, Pittsburgh third baseman, upon his return today from the North, received a letter from Barney Dryfus, owner of the Pirates, demanding him to set at rest reports published that he was connected with Joe Jackson and Lefty Williams, suspended White Sox players, in the game proposed to be held here several weeks ago, but which was cancelled when they were refused the use of City or Mill League parks. Barbare said he had no knowledge of such a game and he resented the stories that connected him with Jackson and Williams.

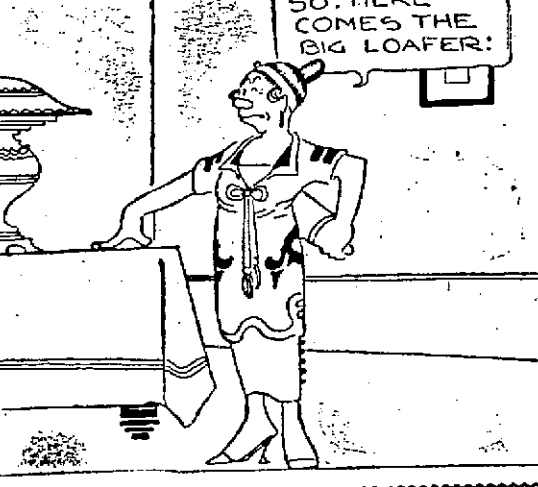

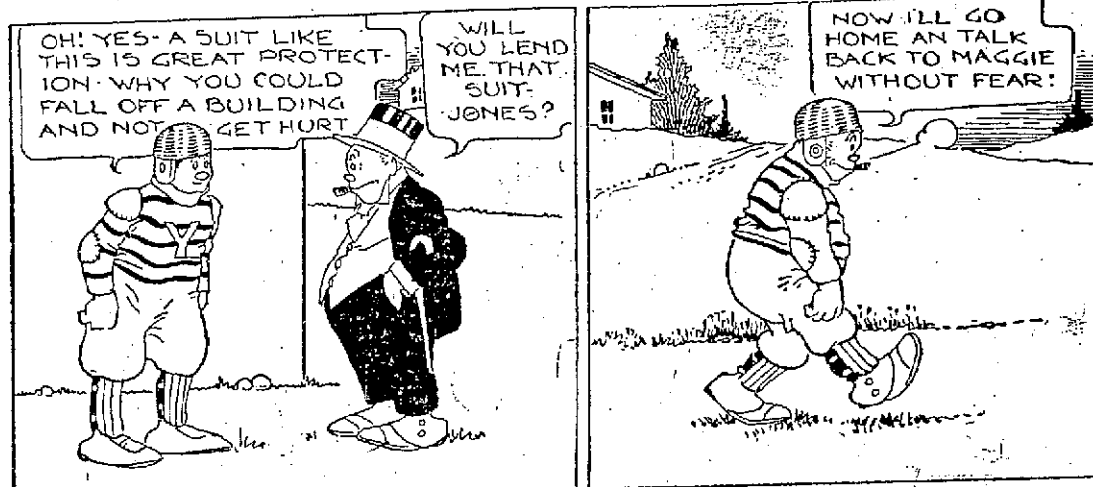

LEWIS THROWS ZBYSKO; TAKES HIM AN HOUR

New York, Nov. 23.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Lexington, Ky., threw Wladek Zbysko of Poland in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match with a flying head-lock, in one hour, 6 minutes and 45 seconds.

BRINGING UP FATHER

27 ENTERED IN CROSS COUNTRY RUN THURSDAY

Jansville's first annual cross country run held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. is going to be a big affair. Already there are 27 runners signed up for the big Thanksgiving Day event with several others promised, so that the outlook is for about 35 to toe the line for the first shot of the starter's gun.

Enthusiasm among the younger element of the sporting blood of the city is at highest pitch than for any other event in some time. The boys who have entered are training vigorously each day to get in shape to go the entire three mile distance.

Gazette Medals Arrive.

The medals offered by the Daily Gazette arrived last night. They are now on exhibit in the lobby of the "Y." The one for first place is gold with a red ribbon; second, silver with blue ribbon; and third, bronze with buff ribbon. There are three additional bronze medals for fourth, fifth and sixth places. In addition there is a turkey, a goose, a duck, a chicken, a squab and an egg for prizes.

Start of the race will be from the "Y" at 10:30. All runners must be on hand at the "Y" at 9:30 to undergo a heart test by Dr. W. L. Johnson, the official physician in charge. The race will be run even if it snows or drizzles.

Two additional inspectors of the course have been appointed—George Sherman and J. A. Steiner. The athletic committee, consisting of Pierpont Wood, Roger Cunningham and A. E. Bergman, meet tomorrow for final details.

February 6: Western Championships in Humbolt Park, Chicago, under auspices of the Alverno Athletic Association.

February 13: Illinois state Championships, Humbolt park, Chicago, under auspices of the Northwestern American Athletic Association.

Julian T. Fitzgerald, who has been president of the association for eight years, has been chosen by the nominating committee to retain his title. Among other nominees, who will be voted for at the annual election December 6 are: third vice-president, C. A. Rush, Milwaukee.

CARDS HAVE SCORE OF 1921 RECRUITS

St. Louis, Mo.—More than 20 youth football players, several of whom have already had their major league baptism, are scheduled to go south with the St. Louis National League club when the spring training season opens.

Manager Rieck has 22 in line at present, and expects to add several more. The collection includes 11 pitchers, 5 infielders, 4 outfielders and 2 catchers.

The pitchers are Lou North, Mike Klotter, John Scott, Walter Schulz and Frank Woodward, all of whom saw several weeks service with the Cardinals in 1920, and six new comers—Chas. Boyer, Ranger, Tex, Frank Dodson, Port Smith, George Lyons, Sioux City; Arthur Reinhard, Milwaukee; Arthur Riviere and Leo Weber.

The two catchers are Carlos Tim Griesenbeck, from Cisco, Tex., and George Gilliam, of Suffolk, Va., neither of whom has been seen in action here.

Two of the recruit outfielders are returning to the club after a year in the minors. They are Clarence Mueller, Port Smith, and Ed. Bogart, Joplin. The other pair are George Miller, from Hagerstown, Md., and Dorsey L. Carroll, Memphis.

The new infielders are Adams, a shortstop from Danville, Va.; Ray Blakes, Memphis; Ed. Wilmer, a local semi-pro; Bottomley, and Ezzell, whom Scout Charley Barrett is bringing from Texas.

BASEBALL TIPS

New York.—Ed. Kenetich first baseman of the Brooklyn National League team, has returned his signed contract for the 1921 season. The only other players signed so far are Manager Wilbert Robinson and Ivan Olson.

Peoria, Ill.—The Peoria team of the Three I League will play in a new $100,000 city owned park next season. Work on the new plant is under way, and it will be finished before the opening of play in 1921. The bond issues to provide the new park was authorized by Peoria voters in an election last spring. The stands and bleachers will all be concrete and steel structure. The seating capacity will be 10,000.

Toledo, O.—Roger Bresnahan, president of the Toledo baseball club of the American association is "scouring the country" for players for his 1921 club. Roger made money in the 1920 campaign and is going to spend it, he says, to bring a pennant to Toledo. He is the first in the history of the American Association. Bresnahan has not yet signed as manager.

Cincinnati, O.—The Cincinnati National League team will train next spring at Cisco, Texas. The Reds will begin training March 3 and remain at Cisco until March 25. Eleven exhibition games have been booked for the team while on its way north.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR NATIONAL PIN MEET AT BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Plans for the 1921 bowling tournament of the American League are under way. The great jurist had been chosen as supreme head of baseball. His selection ended the war which threatened to disrupt the big leagues—the leading organs in the great national game.

Greed and selfishness of the majority of the magnates brought about the branch. The same money-grubbing spirit, which has blinded many of the men behind the game, has caused most of the trouble in other "wars" and disagreements.

It was that same greed which caused magnates to keep secret as long as possible the work of the few crooked players in the sport.

The game will not stand many more eruptions. It is on rocky footing now because of recent exposures. Judge Landis, as the supreme power in the game, will take the lead in placing it back on a high plane. In addition to leading the league, Sisler established a new modern record for hits in a season, driving out 253. The previous record, 248, was set by Ty Cobb in 1911.

Showing the Way

By NORMAND E. BROWN.

"I'm doing it for the kids."

So said Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, when he accepted the biggest job in baseball the other day. The great jurist had been chosen as supreme head of baseball. His selection ended the war which threatened to disrupt the big leagues—the leading organs in the great national game.

Greed and selfishness of the majority of the magnates brought about the branch. The same money-grubbing spirit, which has blinded many of the men behind the game, has caused most of the trouble in other "wars" and disagreements.

SISLER THIRD TO FINISH OVER .400

St. Louis.—When George Sisler, the Browns' first sacker, blazed the trail for American league hitters during the campaign just ended and finished with an average that unofficial figures place at .400, it marked the first occasion in eight years that a major league player has reached the 400 mark, and gave the St. Louis Americans their first batting champion since 1906 when George Stone finished with .353.

Records indicate, incidentally, that it was only the fifth time in a score of years that a big league mark of such proportions has been established, and in every instance by an American leaguer.

Only Two Others

LaJole of Cleveland led the way in 1901, when he finished the season with .422, and it was not until 10 years had passed that his record was approached. Ty Cobb and Joe Jackson then hung up marks of .420 and .403 respectively. Cobb held up for another year, compiling an average of .410 in 1912; but after that the 400 genius became extinct until this year.

The last time the National League ended with 400 was in 1939, when Ed Delahanty of Philadelphia finished with .400.

In addition to leading the league, Sisler established a new modern record for hits in a season, driving out 253. The previous record, 248, was set by Ty Cobb in 1911.

LITTLE KNOWN RULES FIGURE IN OHIO GAME

The Ohio State-Illinois game resulted in application of two rules of football, one is that when time is called after a play has been started the offensive team must be allowed to complete it. In the final play of the game the whistle blew just as "Hoke" Workman threw the pass which scored the Ohio touchdown. While the allotted fifteen minutes of the quarter ended with the whistle, Ohio was permitted to complete the play and kick the goal.

At another point in the game Illinois rushed to the one yard line. On the fourth down Grange crashed into the line. He was held motionless a moment standing up and then the players separated after the whistle, he fell over the goal line for which appeared to be a touch down. The rule provides that when the ball comes to be in motion it is "down" and Ohio was given the ball on its own one yard line.

Shorty drops in on New York!

HERE WE ARE, PETE!

Camped once more in the plumb centre of our old stamping grounds—rubbing elbows with the roaring racket and running flush into more electric displays, blazing posters and smashing signs that sound the joys of Camel Cigarettes than you'd ever believe could be jammed into one town!

When I hit Broadway this p. m. I'd said the Reynolds folks had transplanted "Camel City" right up here!

It seems like all New Yorkers have adopted Camels as their own personal brand! And, Pete, since this is the original speed town it's only what you expect when you see 'em carry a package of Camels in each coat pocket. If their right hand is busy, they dig out their left hand deck—they just won't lose time getting a Camel lighted! That's the gait around here, old thoro-bred!

And, Peter, the New Yorker has his own A-1 pet reason why he's so keen for Camels. For instance, Doc Marshall will bet his car on Camels quality against any cigarette in the world! Bill James says to me—"Shorty, there never was mild, mellow body like Camels." And, as for Dan Boggs—he spills it that Camels are the only cigarette free from any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or cigarette odor! And, he knows! Frank Frazer will tell you it's Camels wonderful Turkish and Domestic blend! And all of them are right!

And, Pete, old proof-of-the-pudding—you tell 'em that Missouri hasn't anything on little old New York when it comes to that "show me" stuff, on cigarettes or anything else!

Sincerely,

Shorty.

"Well, I'll Be Switched"—

exclaimed the chap who had just heard the why and wherefore of Spur Cigarettes. It didn't take him long to say, "Switch me to Spurs."

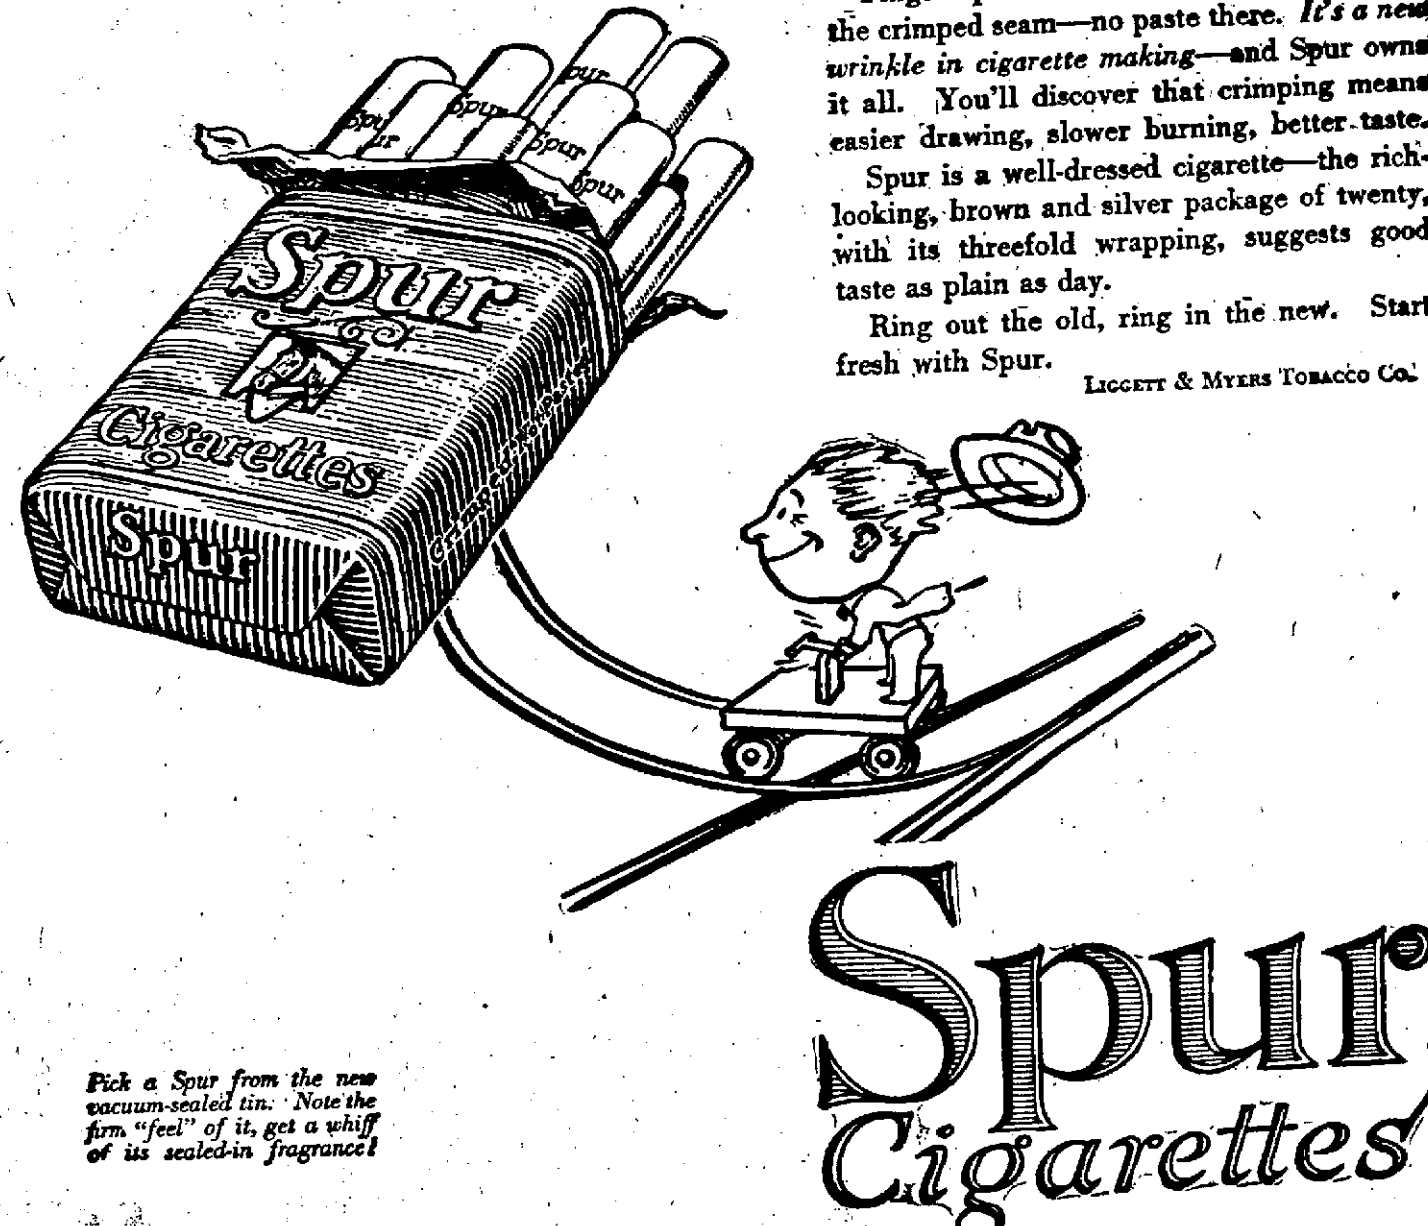

Notice that good old-time tobacco taste in Spurs. Trace it down and you will find it comes from the blend of choice Turkish, fine Burley, and other home-grown tobaccos. Rich—refreshing—right.

Finger Spur. It's fat and full-rolled. Note the crimped seam—no paste there. It's a new wrinkle in cigarette making—and Spur owns it all. You'll discover that crimping means easier drawing, slower burning, better taste.

Spur is a well-dressed cigarette—the rich-looking, brown and silver package of twenty, with its threefold wrapping, suggests good taste as plain as day.

Ring out the old, ring in the new. Start fresh with Spur.

Amazing Revelations

By MAY WINTER
Spirit Medium

I agreed to return after my evening show and stay the night. But I made a few inquiries about my mysterious friend, and learned that she was eminently respected locally, but was somewhat of a recluse, which under the circumstances was only to be expected. I managed to interview the minister, the local police inspector, the letter carrier, and a few tradesmen dealing with the house. No one knew anything against the lady, and prior to her occupation of the house, no suggestion had ever been heard of its being haunted. I nearly opened my mouth and put my foot in it in this connection, because no one to whom I spoke to about the house I had just left had heard of its present unwholesomeness. I had to cover my tracks by saying I was looking for a haunted house, and from its outside appearance thought the place I mentioned might be worth investigating. This idea was well-received, and I was no better off for my trouble.
And Then the Spook Came
At eleven o'clock that night I was back with my sorely-troubled acquaintance. She sat by the drawing-room fire, the only other illumination coming from two tall candles burning low on the wide mantel. The walls were covered with a sort of goblin tapestry that seemed to move eerily in the flickering light. The night was not cold, yet the owner of the house sat huddled up close to the fire, and seemed to shiver in anticipation of coming events, despite her previous protestations of bravado.
"Did you see a ghostly drapery trail along the passage as you entered the hall?" she inquired.
"No," I replied cheerfully. "Did you see anything?" I asked the maid who was arranging the table.
"I never do see anything," she explained. "I have tried to persuade Madam that it is only her imagination, but she won't believe it."
"Bosh!" shrieked the woman by the fire. "Go and get some hot coffee."
The woman lit herself a cigarette and passed the box to me. In the action of lighting a taper by the fire she paused, gave an involuntary shudder, and whispered mysteriously: "The horrible grey shape is moving about my room." She pointed to the ceiling overhead, which I learnt afterwards was immediately underneath her bedroom. Then all her muscles became tense, and she cried hoarsely: "My God! It's coming downstairs!"
Heard Human Scream
I listened intently, and I thought I heard a faint moan. Then a screeching blast of wind rushed along the corridor. Somewhere upstairs a door clanged, and a human scream, and smothering of crockery sounded outside the drawing-room as the maid literally fell into the room in a dead faint.
After a time we resuscitated the girl, and in a frightened way she described what had happened. She was bringing the coffee tray from the kitchen when an icy wind swept past her and the upper half of a man dressed in grey veiling floated downstairs. In one hand he held a long curved knife. My hostess shuddered at this description, and murmured to herself, "That's the devil!" "And then," continued the girl, "I woke up in here."

We gave the maid a good stiff whisky and put her to bed. Nothing else happened that night, although we waited expectantly. Next morning I examined the house thoroughly and interrogated the maid and the other servants. They were all local people, and could not help in my investigation. Only the maid saw the apparition, although every one in the house heard the rushing wind. All I could do was to satisfy myself that no stranger entered the house, and that every person who visited the maid saw the ghost thereinauthoritatively accounted for.
Much to my chagrin, I was forced to leave it at that.
Some months later the very long arm of coincidence reached out and handed me this letter from a detective agency—
Detectives Get in the Game
"Dear Miss Wynter—Your address was given to us by the following case will you favor us with a call at your earliest convenience?"
The writer accompanied the husband of a woman, who lives in a large country home, on a visit to investigate the happening there of some ghostly visitation that usually coincided with the husband's return to the wife. On the occasion in question the upper half of a man in grey was seen floating downstairs by a local chambermaid who had lived in the house for five years and had never seen any such phenomenon previously.
"Knowing that you produce similar phenomena yourself, we thought perhaps you could suggest some natural explanation to account for the above."
Yours faithfully,
I thought I could give a natural explanation when I read this letter. I rang the detective agency up and gave them a specimen of thought-reading.
"To begin with you went to such an address," I said, and then gave a description of the maid and all that had happened. I was right.
"Can you tell us the answer?" came over the wire.
"Yes, I can," I returned, "but whether I shall or not depends on the kind of man your client is."
Kept Away the Husband
I left it at that until I had another interview with the lady who smoked so many cigarettes. Intuition was right with me again. The husband was not a nice person to know. His wife kept him away with imagined ghosts. The intelligent chambermaid was put up to see something that never happened. Her "fainting fit" was a piece of remarkably clever acting. The "icy

OPEN WAR IS ON IN STATE EDUCATION

Superintendent Cary Clashes With Board, Dispute to Go to Legislature.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison—Open war has been declared between the superintendent of public instruction and the state board of education, as the result of statements made by representatives of these two governing agencies of Wisconsin schools, it has been stated by officials.
A fight that has been going on under the surface broke out into open encounter when Superintendent C. P. Cary declared himself definitely for the abolition of the board of education, it was stated.

This fight, it is said, as has been known for some time here, will be carried to the floor of the legislature when it convenes. The board of education has a definite program of educational development in Wisconsin with bills ready to present.

It is pointed out that the superintendent of public instruction declares that the present "effort" to flood the state with talk of a "program" seems to have its purpose the delay of the public mind from the real issue, which he says is the abolition of the board, inasmuch as "there is no place in our educational system for such an organization."

Favors Appointive Chief
"The fundamental correction of the educational system in this state," the board of education says, "is the selection of the chief educational officer by a representative board of education instead of his popular election as at present. Every survey of a state educational system that has had this problem within its scope has recommended the change from an elective to an appointive chief educational officer."

According to the superintendent of public instruction, "there will never be an opportunity for peace and harmony in the educational system so long as the state board of education exists, for the reason that it has no proper place in the sun. If it were deemed necessary to have a board of education it should be an elective board, not a board appointed by the governor."

System Is Just Drifting
Officials of the board of education declare that "the fundamental characteristic of our educational situation is a habit of drift. Absorbed in "wind" was a blast she blew on a siren whistle.

"But why bring me into it?" I asked.
"Well," replied the cute old lady, "my husband wired me that he should bring a London detective to see if he could discover the origin of the ghost that haunted me, and as you were in the neighborhood I thought we might rehearse our little trick on an expert."
(Miss Wynter makes further revelations in the next chapter.)

routine, we expect some higher power to somehow bring us great educational achievement. We have a kind of optimistic fatalism. Three things are necessary for educational improvement in this state—a competent, courageous leadership, a reconstruction of the machinery of state educational administration, and a comprehensive state-wide educational program."

"A word as to the so-called 'program' of the state board of education," the superintendent of public instruction says. "From some source comes the statement that the state superintendent is opposed to it. The state superintendent does not know what it is, and therefore does not know whether he is in favor of or opposed to it. He is under the impression that it is another illustration of the old saw, 'The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse.'"

AGRICULTURAL DEAN ADVISES FARMERS TO KEEP UP CONFIDENCE

Madison—This is no time for the farmer to quit and lie down on the job, even though the present conditions are hard for him to bear, H. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture declared in speaking to a meeting of the county agents here within a short time the relief will be feeling the same pinch, he said.

It is no time for the farmer to lose confidence in the government as it exists, the speaker declared. He denounced farmers for trying to influence the farmer to have his belief in the present system shaken. Producers should not be dumped on the market at this time, Dean Russell stated. Dumping would only serve to cause further price reduction and greater distress for the farmer, the speaker said. Farmers were urged to store their products and to organize so that their product might be fed to the market as the demand warranted.

The present is no time for undue expansion, Dean Russell declared. He said that building was probably safe but should be avoided. He explained that no one buys on a falling market such as characterizes the present situation. Farmers were urged by the dean to buy cautiously. He also urged as a necessity a reduction in the cost of production by the application of scientific methods. Elimination of unnecessary middle men between the producer and the consumer was spoken of as desirable.

Stevens Point—The biggest business deal ever put across in Stevens Point has just been closed with the announcement of the Chamber of Commerce that it will construct a $400,000, five-story 125-room hotel here next year. Construction work will begin May 1 at the intersection of Chicago and Strong avenues, a block from the heart of the business district. The project has resulted in the organization of two separate companies, one to be known as the Stevens Point Hotel Company with a capitalization of $25,000 and the second, the Stevens Point Hotel Real Estate Company, with a capitalization of $75,000.

POULTRY BREEDERS TO ENTER STATE CONTEST

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee—Prizes of cups, ribbons and cash totaling approximately $2,000 in value will be awarded at the National Poultry Show to be held here Thanksgiving week in the auditorium, according to an announcement made by the Association of Commerce here. Among the awards the show will also be large quantities of food, table silver, silk skirts, especially constructed coops and automatic feeders, it is said. Membership in any organization of poultry breeders is not necessary for those who desire to exhibit, it is stated. Anyone having standard bred poultry may enter their birds in competition.

Merlin Hull to Go Back to Editing Newspaper

Madison—Merlin Hull, retiring secretary of state, declared that he intends to return to Black River Falls and continue to edit his newspaper, the Jackson County Journal, and practice law, when, on Jan. 1, Junior S. Hall, Green Bay, steps into office.
"And I'll be glad to get back at the old work again," was his comment. Mr. Hull has intimated that he will remain active in state politics. Mr. Hall, the incoming secretary, has been in Madison recently, investigating the affairs of his office.

Gentlemen:

We want to compliment you on the splendid ad you ran in the Daily Gazette of November 18th entitled "Clothes prices in line with crop prices."

This ad was set up in a mighty attractive way and was about as effective an ad as we have ever seen. We don't see how you could have made it any stronger. That little news item in the edition of November 17th was also very good. It made the next day's ad more effective.

You've got the right idea in offering big values at this time, and advertising in such an effective way. Just keep up the good work and let us know whenever we can give you any help with your advertising.

Yours truly,
